Attached note.

Dear delegates,

We would like to remind you that the International Bioethics Committee (IBC) is a subcommittee of the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO). Therefore, since its creation in 1993, it has followed the advice of 36 experts who are chosen according to a balanced geographical distribution and adequate qualification on either law, human rights, philosophy, education or communication in mind. Consequently, the IBC plays a role of paramount importance for ensuring human dignity and freedom when implementing controversial technologies.

This said, we would appreciate for you to keep in mind through this debate that you are going to represent the experts, who are currently in charge of finding out solutions on issues regarding human science. For this reason, please try to take into consideration the professional background of the expert that you are going to be impersonating, so that your participations may be better prepared. For this purpose, we provide you with a list that presents the names of all the involved ones.
